Local Firm Gains National Attention

sident); and Bennett Barnes, president of Barnes Lumber Co. and supplier of the foundation panels, joined to put on the demonstration.

On Tuesday the septic tank was installed, the well driller began driving for water and a four-inch deep crushed stone base was poured for the foundation footings. The two halves of the modular house arrived by truck and were unloaded at one side of the site. The house, a rancher 23 feet by 40 feet has 920 square feet of living space.

At 8:25 a.m. Wednesday the truck with the foundation panels arrived and workmen had put them into place and filled dirt around them by 10:30 a.m. At 11 a.m., a 60-ton crane lifted the first of the 10-ton module sections into place. The second section was placed by 11:27 a.m. and workmen were under neath.

In the next four hours this work was carried out:

The roofing was completed, gutters were installed and the rest of the weatherboarding was nailed into place. Interior seams where the two halves came together were covered with door jambs. Already in place inside from the factory finishing line were kitchen and bathroom fixtures, even to a chandelier over the dining area.

The well driller completed the well about midday Wednesday, reaching water at 200 feet and a water line was laid and connected to the house. Central Va. Electric Cooperative linemen had installed a pole in the morning and had 200 amp service connected to the house by noon, about the same time the telephone installer finished.

Compton's crews started grading the front yard as soon as the crane was out of the way and by mid afternoon had dropped in place the prepoured concrete front steps and had planted two American boxwood beside them.

At 3 p.m. James Neville, national director of housing for the Farmers Home Administration turned the keys over the Bruce and escorted the family through the house. They turned on the lights and water faucets, Mrs. Bruce made the first telephone call from her new home.

The use of the treated wood foundation brought many housing industry observers and experts from other federal agencies interested in the system to watch the demonstration. There are from 50 to 75 houses in the nation with wood foundations, with 15 or more built in Virginia.

Treated wood foundations have been approved as an insurable construction method under programs of the Federal Housing Administration, the Veterans Administration and the Farmers Home Administration and a week and a half ago the Southern Building Code accepted it.

US Forest Service specialists and other proponents say that installation of a treated wood foundation can be from 5 to 30 per cent cheaper than a conventional masonry foundation and that erection time can be trimmed to one-sixth or less what would be required for masonry.

After the home was set into place and operational, Leon Paulette told of one problem which could have snarled the publicity for the project, but which was overcome by some quick thinking and fast traveling.

When the house was in place and the electric service was connected, one of Paulette's men found the main circuit breaker in the house panel wasn't working. That was about noon. "There wasn't time to drive to Appomattox for another one," said Paulette. "Then I remembered we had an identical house going up to Culpeper. I called the plant and they said it has already left."

Paulette got out a map, figured out where the truck could be intercepted and sent an assistant to get the good part.

"He flagged the truck down at Ruckersville on U.S. 29, took out the circuit breaker and was on his way back within a few minutes." The assistant go back to Kents Store shortly before 3 p.m. just in time to replace the faulty breaker with the good one and turn the lights on for the Bruce family's first tour of the new house.

R. A. Goodling, Virginia state director for the Farmers Home Administration, said Wednesday that Virginia has $54 million in federal loan money guaranteed for this fiscal year and has just gotten a commitment for another $30 million. It made 3,658 loans in the 1970-71 fiscal year and expects to make more than 6,000 before next July 1.

County To Purchase Voting Machine

PALM READERS

Supervisors were asked by a couple from Lynchburg about the current licensing for palm reading in the county; $500 for county license and $500 for a state license. The $1,000 fee extends for one year to the end of each December and cannot be prorated.

Supervisors discussed at length proposed changes in the set-up of the Welfare Department, which will soon become part of a regional supervisory plan as programmed now under directive of the Va. General Assembly which instructed the Welfare Dept. to come up with a plan or reorganization. One plan which calls for something like 40 District offices plus field offices and contact stations is designed to save dollars in clerical expense. Appomattox, presumably, would be a contact station, with case workers and supervisors moved to a field office.

Mr. Fred Keezee, administrative assistant to the health director, Appomattox county, Health Department, introduced Robert O. McFaden to supervisors. Mr. McFaden is county sanitarian, replacing William E. Atkinson who is now serving Buckingham County and Cumberland county as sanitarian.

WASTE DISPOSAL

J. A. Smith, extension agent, agriculture, appeared before the board at the board's request to discuss methods for solid waste disposal. As of Jan. 1, 1972, Appomattox county must have a plan for solid waste disposal to replace the present burning and compacting operation at the Appomattox County land fill on Road 604 south and west of the town of Appomattox.

Suggested plans include a distribution of large metal receptacles throughout the county for housewives, farmers, etc, to deposit bottles, cans, garbage, etc. The county is also considering the purchase of a bulldozer to be used in cooperating with the town at the 604 landfill site.

STONEWALL

"Marvel not that I said unto thee, ye must be born again." John 3:7.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wheeler and family was Sunday night supper guest of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Wheeler. Other week end guest were Ben Wheeler, Bertha Jones, Mrs. Alice Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. David Cyrus, and Mr. and Mrs. David Cyrus. Mrs. Wheeler is going to the Dr. about those broken ribs.

prices of most other retailers. All sales are made on a "satisfaction guaranteed" basis.

The uniqueness of Super Dollar Stores is its program of taking discount retailing to smaller cities and towns, while the typical "full-line" discount stores (consisting of around 100,000 square feet) are located in major cities. Super Dollar is successfully opening stores of from 2500 to 6500 square feet in towns of from 2,000 to 9,000 populations. Super Dollar Stores, Inc., was founded in May of 1966 by a group of North Carolina businessmen. Its capital is now in excess of 2 million dollars and it is reported to be the fastest growing chain of discount dollar stores in America. Other Super Dollar Stores in this area are in Amherst, Brookneal, Chase City, South Boston, South Hill, Clarksville, Lawrenceville and Kenbridge, Virginia.

Mr. Harold Lamm, manager Store development, is in charge of local personnel recruitment and the store opening said it is the company's plan to employ local people to operate its stores.

The whole community was truly saddened by the death of Miss Annie Alvis who was buried at Bethel Church Sunday afternoon. She will be greatly missed by all who knew her.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mathews of Orange spent the week end with the Davidson family.

Mrs. Parks Jennings spent Friday evening with Mrs. Elsie Krantz. Also her neice and husband of Lynchburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Krantz of Altavista visited his brother Mr. and Mrs. Richard Krantz Friday.

State Board Okays High School Plans

There have been requests, said the Supt. for additional library hours, especially in the evenings, and for reference books and reading material additions to the county library for which funds are not available under the present budget and set-up.

The director of instruction, Eugene Peyton, reported to the board that "we've been gradually improving" within the instructional ranks of teachers and supervisory personnel in the number of persons holding degrees and post-graduate credits. (see separate article)

The school board accepted the resignation of a secretary in the board office, Mrs. Patsy Chambers, effective in December and approved the hiring of Mrs. Lois Foxwell to replace Mrs. Chambers as secretary to the Director of Instruction, Mr. Peyton.

The board reviewed the action of school principals and approved the suspension of 27 pupils for periods ranging from one day to a week. Supt. Smith said that this is about the same number as last year at this time and that the total of such suspensions is less than 1/10th of one percent of the school population.

Several school related bus trips were approved and the board gave Supt. Smith authority to approve such trips if plans for an outing develop between regular meetings of the board.

TIPS ON QUITTING CIGARETTES

1. Pick a Q (Quit) Day.
2. Switch to a low tar-nicotine brand, and begin to cut down BEFORE Q Day.
3. Keep a supply of substitutes handy: mints, gum, celery, carrot sticks.
4. Quit on Q Day; use substitutes when the urge to smoke is strong; keep busy; pamper yourself with special meals; drink plenty of water; exercise.
5. Renew your resolve daily. Think over the health hazards of cigarettes.
6. Plan a treat for yourself with the money you used to spend on cigarettes.
